SYNOPSIS

On the night of their high school graduation, three juvenile delinquents find themselves getting drunk at their regular hangout, throwing beer bottles and enjoying the abuse hurled at them by nearby residents. But for these young men about to enter a new chapter of life, this little bit of chaos is nowhere near enough to farewell their dying youth. Before dawn, they decide to share their deepest, darkest secret with one another. After all, only true "bros" are qualified to know their most unspeakable deed.

The first secret is shocking. The second secret is terrifying. The third secret is... Wait! Didn't we agree to a fair exchange? This third secret doesn't qualify! Unless you want us to kill you, you must do something terrible enough so that we also know an equally unspeakable secret about you. Right now! Tonight!

The sound of wings reverberates through the air. In the murky half-light, race pigeon 043 has finally returned after seven years. 043 wasn't the only one that went missing seven years ago; the other was their son, Shih, whose disappearance remains the irreparable wound in Pigeon Master Ching's heart. The family's barely-maintained peace is shattered by 043's return, as Ching's daughter, Lulu, brings a beaten-up boy named Tig back home.

At first reluctant, Ching begins to see shades of Shih in Tig. After all, breeding pigeons with his son was his biggest wish. But wild pigeons can't change their ways. Lulu leaves abruptly and never comes back. Ching's wife, Ming, is also tempted to leave. She stealthily begins legal proceedings to declare Shih deceased. Thunder booms vaguely afar; a typhoon emerges on the horizon. Grandpa's death is the last straw that breaks this family's back. In the aftershock of the storm, what course should the wounded follow?

The tribal village gets misty in September, letting out an atmosphere as intriguing as Hayung's family in this autumn-winter season. After Hayung's homeland was occupied, one 80-year-old man devoted his whole life to worshipping GAGA. The traditions were forgotten by his descendants after his passing...

Hayung's family represented indigenous families in Taiwan. Each tribe represents a withering big family. The eldest son Pasang joins in the election campaign, neglecting the opposition from his family. The second son, who is a farmer, is thus affected. After the election campaign, the entire family is on the verge of falling apart, and the village witnesses the snow for the first time in a very long time... With snow melting, new lives emerge. The broken family starts mending and repairing...

Liz Ai-ai and Berry head to Japan with aspirations to be AV actresses. Unfortunately, with the decline of the AV industry, they were forced to return to Taiwan. Struggling to find jobs with no proper skills or qualifications, they finally catch a break after a conflict at a movie audition that catches the attention of wrestling club manager Auntie Shun, who subsequently invites them to join the wrestling club. Liz Ai-ai and Berry show off the "special skills" they learned from their AV experiences, using unique body movements and sexy voices to attract large audiences. Combining violence and sex appeal, they eventually go viral and elevate the fame of their wrestling club.

However, Snowy, who holds a huge passion for wrestling, leaves to join another professional wrestling team, which destroys her former wrestling club and friends. Filled with regret, she seeks forgiveness from Liz Ai-ai and Berry, and joins them in a professional wrestling competition in hopes of restoring the pride and winning their prize money to repair their wrestling club...

In a fishing village lives a creature with the body of a pig, the nose of an elephant, ears of a horse, and feet like a rhinoceros. Every night as people lie in slumber, it sneaks into the village and devours their nightmares! Ah-keat's father has always recounted the story of when he came across the mythical creature in the forest as a child. Ah-keat is doubtful about the story but has always looked forward to the day he can see the creature for himself. But his father dies in an accident at sea one day, and his family is so busy with the funeral they are unable to help the young boy with understanding his father's death. When Ah-keat learns of the sudden news that he will be leaving the village to live with his long-estranged mother in Taipei, he sets off in search of the mythical creature in hopes that it can help him find his father...

SYNOPSIS

In 2010, students in a prestigious high school are chasing after the hopes and dreams that only basketball can give them. With one sweaty game after another, they live their youthful lives. However, these high school kids get involved in campus gambling. When gangsters introduce big money basketball betting, the students face a deadly temptation. Stakes rise. The gang embeds themselves deeper into the school with the help of ignorant high school students. At this age between childhood and adulthood, will they make critical decisions to change their lives or will they continue down the reckless path of wasting their precious youth?

Dancer SHEU Fang-yi's career has been told through her modern dance dramas such as Sparrow, Stranger, Wall, and Martha GRAHAM's Heretic.

Martha GRAHAM once said: "A dancer dies twice — once when they stop dancing, and this first death is the more painful."

At this intersection of her life, SHEU Fang-yi commemorates her glorious past two decades with a funeral, to farewell her past self, and to get ready to move toward her unknown future.

YANG San-eii has never owned a home, nor does he plan to join the debt game now. At the age of 50, he decides instead to construct one with his own energy and time, and opts for traditional Japanese-style carpentry that omits the need for nails. In his mind, the YANG family house will stand tall for a century, but during the decades-long construction, his family's livelihood is solely dependent on his wife, who is propping up the restaurant alone. The YANGS and their daughters are now the focus of community gossip. Chatter aside, the sorest point of stress is economical. With no end in sight, the project's limbo status prompts the two daughters to leave home for work and love. These structural changes, as well as other interpretations of belonging, challenge YANG's sense of mission. As a man with a broken childhood, will YANG be able to complete his dream home and secure a future for his family?

SYNOPSIS

Twenty years ago, LIN Sheng-hsiang was a successful athlete who enjoyed glamor and glory. Once a child abandoned by the education system due to his unimpressive academic performance, he has redeemed himself in the modern pentathlon, an obscure sport in Taiwan. Now a coach, he tries his best to serve disadvantaged children who have a similar background to his own. This year, he meets CHEN You-hsuan, a talented young girl from a remote village in eastern Taiwan. LIN devotes himself and all the resources he can find to train You-hsuan. If he manages to help You-hsuan qualify for the Olympic Games, he will have realized his dream of bringing Taiwan's modern pentathlon team onto the international stage. But everything, including time, funding, the system, and the wayward adolescent, all seems to be going against his wishes. But he never expected that this would be just the beginning of the cruelest and toughest challenge he has ever faced.

HE'S STILL YOUNG

This documentary on the ageless spirit of Taiwanese poet WU Sheng took four years to make.

#BIOGRAPHY
#LITERATURE

SYNOPSIS

Poet WU Sheng writes in a style that is down-to-earth and filled with natural energy. As an intellectual who returned to teach in his hometown, he saw how industrialization and urbanization continued to encroach on agriculture, farmers and rural villages, and bore witness to the lives of rice farmers and that of his mother.

Based on these experiences, he penned poetry collections that include The Soil, Speak to the Children, and He's Still Young. His writing is infused with insights on life and a self-identity tinged with nostalgia for times past, reminding his readers to care about the land with which they coexist.

The first half of the film shows him trying to come to grips with his anger, while in the second half he gradually returns to being the poet WU Sheng, finding comfort in literature. The film, which shows the emotion that flows between the writer and his family and friends, together with the visual language employed, presents WU Sheng as a warm and three-dimensional figure, achieving a rare work that closely links a writer's literary beliefs to his life events.

SYNOPSIS

The husband-and-wife literary duo, CHU Hsi-ning and LIU Musha, sustained their family through their literary endeavors, nurturing two daughters — CHU T'ien-wen and CHU T'ien-hsin — who grew up to be addicted to words and became legendary in their own rights.

I Remember, directed by novelist LIN Chun-ying, documents the growth of the Chu sisters from the intimate viewpoint of a longtime family friend. It begins from their family home under the osmanthus tree, where the sisters studied with their mentor, HU Lan-cheng, met like-minded friends and started the San-san Jikan ("double three journal"). The camera follows them as they visit their old home in the military dependents community at Fengshan and cross the sea to pay their respects at Hu's grave in Tokyo, all the while talking and laughing, sharing their thoughts on each other's writings. Also captured on camera are the sisters weaving through streets and alleys to feed and take care of stray cats. They bare their hearts in the film, offering vignettes from their lives behind the literary achievements, lived as ordinary people in a way that is spontaneous, affable, warm and three-dimensional.

SYNOPSIS

Under a sweet osmanthus tree lived an ordinary family, and in their house was a cache of correspondences between the father, novelist CHU Hsi-ning, and the mother, translator LIU Musha. Not quite love letters, these correspondences speak of great ambitions through words such as "literature alone must not be ordinary." The CHU family's three daughters compare and connect their parents' works with childhood memories, reading aloud the letters from their youth, as though from the story of a thousand and one nights, searching through and overturning boxes and chests for the origins of the family's memories, unleashing a current of faded times. Unfulfilled Dreams is the directorial debut of the eldest of the CHU daughters, CHU T'ien-wen. The husband and wife lived a simple life, but always held on to the belief that literature must not be ordinary, a belief that is still faithfully pursued by their daughters with pen and paper.

Let's travel back in time and watch this story about a diplomat...

In a beautiful valley, children can catch as many fluttering butterflies as they want. By turning these butterflies into beautiful artworks, people made large sums of money and became materially comfortable. From a young age, the diplomat relied on catching these butterflies to get the money she needed for studies and daily expenses.

When the diplomat retires and returns to Taiwan, she realizes that the butterfly valley from her childhood no longer exists, destroyed by industrialization. Dejected, she makes up her mind to restore the butterfly valley. She transforms into a fluttering butterfly and flies toward the valley to bring back the beautiful scenery of the past.

In a dream, anything can happen. You can do and achieve anything you want. Even if the world has been subverted, you can start over again. But in reality, even if you are sad, there is nowhere to run.

Life doesn't get easier just because you want it to be simple. That's why we need a dream every day, so we can have the motivation to keep working hard. With a carefree life and her own friends, Lei Lei lived a happy and successful life. But suddenly, an accident puts her in financial crisis, where even meeting her basic needs becomes a struggle. Life becomes too hard to maintain until one day, she is sent to the emergency room and enters a dream she will never wake up from. If life is a painful virtual reality, how about a happier life in a dream?

SYNOPSIS

Dad has a pair of magical glasses that tell stories. That day, Dad and I put on the glasses and something magical happened! We saw Dad's childhood, Grandpa, and Great-grandpa. Eh? How come Great-grandpa disappeared all of a sudden? Eh? "'A-Gei'" was a very, very big pig? Eh? "'A-Gei'" was a sacred pig? Through the glasses, Dad and I saw Great-grandpa's dream. Guess what kind of dream it was? This story allows children to imagine themselves traveling through time with a pair of magical glasses. The film progresses like a game so that children can use their imagination and observe traditional ceremonies from a child's perspective.

SYNOPSIS

Hakka people use "not having enough salt" to describe a physically weak person. From the traditional Hakka perspective, salt is a source of energy and a symbol of Hakka culture. In the early days, Hakka people engaged in heavy labor; to quickly gain energy, they needed to eat more salt. As time passed, salt became a symbol of a person's strength and courage in Hakka culture. With "magic" as the main theme, The Magician of Taste cleverly depicts the process of making preserved snacks such as pickled radish, pickled mustard greens and pickled pork to showcase Hakka pickling culture.

To create a completely different visual style to typical stop-motion animation, we used Hollywood action film photography techniques, greatly enhancing the intensity of the fighting and the sense of smoothness. Instead of using regular 2D special effects, we used cotton to actually shoot the stop-motion explosion effects, with the rough texture of cotton creating a more special visual experience.

This is a story about “company.” Aging societies are a global trend. Dementia is an issue that people must face. The old man in the film imitates a crowing rooster while looking at a rooster in a photo to reminisce his old days working as a farmer. The end of the film shows the child and father accompanying the grandfather to the rooftop to imitate crowing roosters as the sun rises.

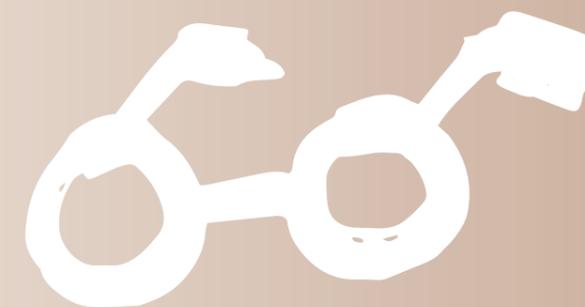

The three of them watch the bustling city streets together. Because of the rooster crowing sound, the demented grandfather can finally feel the company and understanding of his family, and his life is filled with vigor on a busy morning in the city.

Photo retoucher A-nan returns to the old house that saddens him. The eerily beautiful yellow flowers on the loofah trellis attract a whole nest of ants. As a child, A-nan accidentally killed all these yellow flowers when spraying insecticide on them to kill the ants. In a rage, his father beat him lame. This caused a lifelong conflict between them. The elderly and paralyzed father, now wrapped in diapers and covered with ants, evokes the painful memories of A-nan's youth. A-nan sprays and kills the ants again. But how will A-nan unravel this knotted relationship with his father, entangled for so many years? How will he restore the loving beauty of the yellow flowers that once bloomed in the courtyard?

SYNOPSIS

Once upon a time, there was a long river that carried memories. A wonderful Hakka village we called the Fifth Ditch of Water. A group of Hakka people live under the protection and blessing of the emerald green Mount Grand Martial. The warm smiles of villagers are reflected in the water of the river, clear as a mirror, where seaweed and fish swim freely. For the children, this river is their whole world. Put down the paper boat, let the sound of children's laughter intertwine with the gentle sound of flowing water, and store your memories in the river. Pearls of exuberant bubbles are born from the cool, crystal clear water flowing abundantly from the springs of Mount Grand Martial, nurturing indigenous fish and fresh green water plants of all kinds. Hakka sons and daughters have lived and worked on this land for generations, guarding it with a deep respect.

SYNOPSIS

Having grown up with his woodsman grandfather, highway maintenance worker Chiang has an emotional attachment to the forest. He suffers a recurring childhood dream of being lost in the mountains, separated from his grandfather and eventually finding himself beneath an ancient tree. Chiang lives with Li, a woman whose lover disappeared in the forests years before. Chiang begins to notice a growing number of animal carcasses on the roads, also identified by researcher Jun, who is recording the effects of highway construction. Hearing this, Chiang's grandfather offers a cryptic warning of a disappearing tree spirit and cautions them to be aware of his former colleague, Shun, who turned to illegal logging. Learning her estranged mother has died, Li returns to her indigenous roots in the forest. When Chiang and Jun grow close, Jun's jealous colleague tries to frame Chiang. Fleeing to the forest and Li's tribe, Chiang and Jun find the source of the forest's sickness and confront the pending disaster.

SYNOPSIS

Ah Dai comes from a family that runs a prestigious orthodox temple. His childhood sweetheart, Yufan, is desperate to locate her missing aunt. In his attempt to help, Ah Dai agrees to participate in a special ritual that his schoolmates believe could help them seek assistance from the gods to grant their desires. However, they are lured into praying to evil forces instead. As his schoolmates die one after another, Ah Dai tries to use his gift to exorcise evil to save his friends. At the very end, he faces a completely demonized Yufan and must fight her to save the neighborhood.

Abandoned by her husband, heartbroken Sonya survives a train derailment and wakes up in hospital. She discovers she is pregnant with nowhere to go, and seeks company from fellow Indonesian survivor, Murni, also pregnant. Heping, a funeral parlor owner, visits the hospital and decides to hire Sonya and Murni as mortuary cosmetologists. They are placed in employee housing, and their undocumented neighbor, Bakti, a day worker who plays a critical role in the turn of events, shies away from them. Sonya is advised by Heping to seek psychiatric help. She realizes through her treatments that she misses her estranged mother, Paramitha, but can't bring herself to reconnect. Then the COVID-19 pandemic hits Taiwan. Afraid of being deported, Bakti begs Heping to send him away. Sonya eavesdrops on their conversation only to realize that Bakti is the cause of the train derailment; moreover, Paramitha was on the train that day with Sonya and died! Eventually, Bakti finds justice for himself, Murni reveals the father of her children, and Heping confesses the true reason why he wants to help Sonya. In the end, Sonya gives birth to a baby girl and returns to Indonesia to bury her beloved mother.

I-hsin finds out fiancé Li-yang frequently seeks therapy at a psychology clinic named "Time Travelers", and decides to visit it herself one evening to see what it's all about. She is reluctantly given a hypnosis treatment and enters a hyperreal dream. In this alternative reality, she has turned down Li-yang's proposal and instead chose her senior in college, Kai, whom she had a secret crush on. In this divergent timeline, she marries Kai and carries his baby, feeling so incredibly happy that she questions if she made the right choice in real life. After waking up, I-hsin becomes anxious about her imminent marriage. Li-yang feels I-hsin's panic and suggests they take a break from their relationship. During this hiatus, I-hsin indulges in her alternative world and grows attached to Kai. However, I-hsin discovers that Li-yang was devastated by her rejection and got seriously injured in a car accident in this parallel universe. Seeing the traumatized Li-yang, I-hsin realizes this caring and loving man is the one she really needs, and resolves to save Li-yang in both universes, as well as their relationship.

Four years ago, an accident while chasing a the swordfish took away the life of Captain Fu's elder son. It was the last time the giant swordfish was seen. With no fish to catch, his other son Yee thinks about transforming the business. When their boat, Victory, is about to be abandoned, Fu meets a foreign boy, Ruan, who tells him that the fish is still out there.

Unable to resist the temptation, Captain Fu brings Yee and Ruan on the journey to search for the giant swordfish. Along the way, Ruan encounters migrant workers, triggering his memory as a wartime refugee. He recalls his dead mother's words: "Never trust the people on the shore."

The obsessions that bring men to the sea eventually become their doom. Only one of them shall return.

SYNOPSIS

Adapted from the bestselling novel of the same name, this film aims to be an Asian version of Frances Ha.

In her early 30s, Summer lives alone, jobless, with little material wants. Her only passion is dancing. To be more specific, ballroom dancing. Under the tutelage of the legendary gay dancer Donny, Summer embarks on a journey of self-discovery and, perhaps more importantly, the search for the perfect partner.

Her hopes are dashed again and again as she witnesses the colorful characters in the ballroom: the arrogant youngster Youlin from a dancing dynasty; the talented Grace who wants nothing but an ordinary life; and the petite Meixin, forever at war with her fiance/partner.

As Summer continues her pursuit of Mr. Right, she is forced to confront the dark memories of her past—the slut-shaming from her control-freak mother, the attempted suicide of her cousin, and the painful humiliation of sex with a classmate. She dreams of the perfect dancing body, yet dreads her own sexuality...

Mermaid's Tale is itself like a beautiful solo dance exploring the female body like The Vegetarian and the lonely obsession of dancing and dream-achieving like Frances Ha.

#POLITICS

SYNOPSIS

Taiwanese leprosy patients have been segregated for their entire lives on the urban fringe of Taipei, Taiwan since 1930. These aged patients built their lives in this island-like leper sanatorium. Then, 20 years ago, the Taiwanese government began to force open the gates of this community and develop their land in order to construct an MRT maintenance depot. This group of patients, though, are awake, aware, and fighting for their lives. So far, government workers have built a long construction ditch that both spreads out and surrounds the land. This construction has rendered the remaining land an island that is shrinking over time. Though the patients' bodies grow old and the aforementioned construction looms over them, the spirit of these patients is growing. Their protests have aroused public attention and have become one of the most important social movements of our time. This film follows the 20 years of their lives and what remains of them: love, spirit, and eventually death — and their connection to the land. This connection is so strong that these patients themselves have become one with the land.

SYNOPSIS

Taiwan's indigenous peoples have long been disadvantaged in Taiwanese society. Many of their descendants have gone astray, taking drugs, fighting, and making trouble. CHEN Zhe-yu, a former indigenous national boxer, wanted to use boxing to bring these children living on the margins of society back to the right track of life. He succeeded, but even after the children achieved good results in boxing, they remain at a loss for the future. But not all hope is lost. It's possible to survive by boxing. How can Zhe-yu help these children find their true direction in life?

SYNOPSIS

After winning four Majors, 15 LPGA titles, and spending 109 weeks ranked number one in the world, TSENG Ya-ni has failed to win a title since 2013 and slid to number 650 in the rankings. The "Smiling Queen of Golf" has lost her trademark smile, as well as the drive and passion in her swings. Taking a full year off from competing, she sets out on a journey of self-discovery. She takes on a new mental training regimen and begins a process to confront her past through dialogue with her mental coaches, trainers, her father, and most importantly, herself. "I have to be okay with not getting back to No. 1," she realizes. With years of trials and tribulations and this new understanding, she embarks on a comeback trail in 2021 with a natural grace and restored hope.

SYNOPSIS

This project is based on the novel of the same name by Alice CHANG. This winter, three 30-year-olds are hovering at the crossroads of work and love. An umbrella that has been regained after being repeatedly lost brings out their three very different life journeys. For these three main characters who are yet to fully mature, the decision of whether to open or close the umbrella is exactly what they have to face. "Getting wet" after closing the umbrella also symbolizes whether they want to give up a certain "persistence" toward achieving their dreams.

SYNOPSIS

Madame Pirate: The Secret Diary is a 6DOF room-scale interactive VR experience. The story, presented in comic strip-style and live-action, depicts protagonist ZHENG Yi-sao writing in her diary about how she mentored a young woman into becoming a pirate. ZHENG's motivation is to prove to herself and the world that the Red Flags are a worthwhile enterprise. The young woman in the story represents people living on the coast who are being oppressed by the Qing Dynasty's corrupt leaders and armies. But the Red Flags are also brutal pirates, feared and despised by villagers and farmers.

SYNOPSIS

On 13 May 1969, as Su-mei and her daughter Ah Eng watch the Cantonese opera at Chinese Temple, Kuala Lumpur, her husband Ah Kooi and son, Ah Yeow, are at the Majestic Theatre. A violent riot unexpectedly erupts, and Su-mei's husband and son are both killed trying to escape. In a panic, Su-mei and her daughter take shelter behind the opera stage the whole night. The Prime Minister declares over the radio that the nation is under a state of emergency and martial law has been immediately imposed. The bodies of Su-mei's husband and son vanish in the aftermath of the riot.

Forty-nine years later, Ah Eng discovers a news article about an almost demolished "513" cemetery. On 13 May 2018, she continues her mother's will to track down her father and brother's burial location.

CHUA, a middle-aged widower, does not seem to have much of a connection with anyone, except for his teenage son, Meng, to whom he returns home every morning after his night shift at the shipyard. The long hours meld into an endless draining cycle of labor and overwork, just to survive. CHUA hides his increasing vulnerabilities beneath his powerful appearance, while Meng, a deeply sensitive boy, and unable to measure up to his father, acutely feels their difference in stature. In the dense, confined spaces of contemporary Singapore, this relationship between father and son-created by a sense of dependency and tension from the outside world-becomes slowly unbearable... CHUA, in a bid to free them from this vicious cycle, performs a "mercy release", freeing a captive animal into the wild. Believing this ritual will create good karma for the person and their child, in this life and the next, CHUA lays down an unexpected path for his son.

Taiwan Creative Content Agency (TAICCA)

Taiwan Creative Content Agency (TAICCA), established in June 2019 and supported by the Ministry of Culture, is a professional intermediary organization that promotes the development of Taiwan's content industries. TAICCA supports various cultural content industries in Taiwan, including film and television, pop music, publishing, ACG, and fashion, artworks, and cultural technologies. With advanced information and communication infrastructure and emerging technologies in Taiwan, such as 5G and AI, TAICCA manages the National Development Fund to develop intellectual property (IP), incubate culture technologies, and facilitate startups. Through international distribution channels, TAICCA strives to promote Taiwan's creative economy and cultural brand in the world.
