SYNOPSIS

After Mrs. WANG is diagnosed with dementia, her daughter Si-hui takes responsibility for looking after her. But Mrs. WANG has always been critical of everything her daughter does. There was an unforgettable emotional event involving the two of them when Si-hui was young: She was burned when she was little and spent her adolescence wearing compression garments. Mrs. WANG felt guilty about it and took Si-hui to all the major hospitals, hoping to treat the scars on her legs. But the sky-high cost of the operations kept the family from doing the surgery. As a result, Mrs. WANG often blamed herself for not keeping her eye on Si-hui better. Mrs. WANG's illness worsens, and she often yells at Si-hui for no reason. She returns to the day when young Si-hui got burned and finds out the reason why the members of her family hurt the ones they loved so much.

SYNOPSIS

Children Around the World tells the audience a story about children from around the world. Every part of the world has always stories about children every day. Using the events that have happened, we want to show the young audiences the diverse cultures in different parts of the world, and they will learn to appreciate their own blessings from seeing other people's suffering. Furthermore, they will also learn to have empathy. We will use three pictures to inspire children's imaginations to create a new story. The theme of our series is closely linked to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) put forwards by the United Nations. We thus put forth a question tied to one of the SDGs to allow the children to think, explore, make them curious, and start a dialogue.

In the early days, people engaged in heavy labor; to quickly gain energy, they needed to eat more salt. With time passing, salt has become a symbol of a person's strength and courage in Hakka culture.

The film uses "the practice of magic" as the main theme and cleverly depicts the process of making preserved radish, Suan-cai, Fu-cai, dried pickled mustard green, and pickled pork, in an attempt to show the Hakka pickling culture.

The first documentary on Taiwan's fine dining. Why do we love to eat? There are foodies, chefs, and young people who aspire to the dining industry. The successful development of Taiwan's food and beverage industry in the past decade has everything to do with these people. In addition to street foods, Taiwanese culture has another more refined aspect. Reflecting from the international perspective, we hope to sort out a context and establish a discourse on Taiwan's fine dining. What is food criticism? What are the influences of international dining guides on Taiwan? How does a chef become a chef? Our stories are presented in interviews with the following three perspectives: foodies who pursue fine dining, chefs who have made a name, and young chefs who are still fighting for their future.

#REALITY SHOW

SYNOPSIS

Welcome To My Home is a program with a new theme of Community Regeneration, and gathers an eye-catching lineup of "three gold" winners such as Golden Bell, Golden Horse, and Golden Melody. It carried out a year of field research and realized that there are many problems in society, such as the gap between the rich and the poor and the aging remote villages, which lead to the exodus of young people. Thus we invite celebrities to transform fishing villages entertainingly, including the camping area business model that young people love most. The main scene of the filming, Yuanbei, is located on an outlying island in Penghu. We have extended our focus to marine environmental protection, which is of concern all over the world, and by planting coral, regenerating marine waste, we combine the unique culture and art of Penghu.

SYNOPSIS

Orphans of the Earth Taiwan's first nature documentary program focused on globally endangered species. The new Elves of Taiwan series in 2021 captured precious glimpses of the lives of the Taiwan Grass Owl, Taiwanese Humpback Dolphin, and Formosan Pangolin - these endemic species are the rarest, least visible, and thus the most challenging to spot on the land, the sky and under the sea. Taking two years for planning and production, Orphans of the Earth: Elves of Taiwan aims to spread the message of saving endangered endemic species in Taiwan and to raise awareness of the harmonious coexistence of humans and other creatures through the dynamic images. This could be the loudest call for people in the post-pandemic era: make peace with animals and the planet.

海之岸

2022 60 min x 1 ep

#DOCUMENTARY

SYNOPSIS

Taiwan's people and society have increasingly estranged themselves from the sea surrounding them. This documentary follows a group of young creative performers as they reconnect with and experience Taiwan's ocean shorelines with their entire being. They then interpret their individual, deeply personal experiences of ocean life, evolution, and environmental change into their performance art. Follow a ballet dancer as she feels out her footing atop cement seawalls and in the shadows of towering wind turbines. Follow dancers as they act out their bewilderment, sorrow, and anger on a factory-fringed, industry-scarred beach. Finally, on Taiwan's most extensive mudflats, dancers absorb the experiences of native oysters, birds, and crabs through an Eastern philosophical lens, transforming these into naturally flowing, impromptu performances.

SYNOPSIS

After a failed coup against General HU 16 years ago, the leader of the rebels, ICON, went missing. Today, CHEN Fan-fei and her husband govern Taiting, a model education city, where they re-educate and train those who have committed lesser crimes to become "patriots". However, Fan-fei realizes that their school has gradually become a concentration camp for brainwashing citizens. At this time, a new rebel leader, Bee, appears and calls on the people, including ICON — who is revealed to be Fan-fei — to rise against General HU. Having already failed once, will Fan-fei choose revolution again? Will the outcome be different this time?

SYNOPSIS

A pinky swear is an act that may seem childish, but when taken seriously, it can also represent an unwavering vow. At seven and 17 years old, LUO Yang-yang made promises to CHEN An-yu and delivered each time, comforting An-yu's insecurity caused by his low self-esteem and broken family. When their relationship is about to blossom from friends to lovers, an accident suddenly strikes An-yu's family. An-yu decides to move far away. When they reunite at 27, they both face the choice of either just giving in and going with the flow or following what their hearts initially desired. As a pair of lovers who have already broken up, they each use their ways to safeguard every "pinky swear" they made to each other in the past, redefining their sweet commitment to love.
